FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ALL Ohio Employers can now enjoy a premium discount with the new BWC's Drug-Free Safety Program (DFSP) Beginning July 1, 2010

The new Ohio BWC Drug-Free Safety Program (DFSP) will be available for all Ohio employers, including previous participants, beginning July 1, 2010. The DFSP is easier to understand and implement, and provides a long-term discount for an unlimited number of years of participation.

There are two levels in the DFSP; eligible employers may elect to join either level of the program:

BASIC LEVEL: Participating non-group-rated employers receive a 4-percent discount by meeting all program requirements. These include completion of a safety review, accident reporting, accident-analysis training for supervisors, employee education, supervisor skill-building training, alcohol and drug testing, and a written DFSP policy.

ADVANCED LEVEL: Participating non-group-rated employers receive a 7-percent discount by meeting all of the Basic Level requirements, as well as conducting 15-percent random drug testing annually, and completing a safety action plan. Advanced level participants must also provide a second chance after employee's first positive test with BWC to specify exceptions.

Also beginning July 1, 2010, employers participating in group-experience rating may participate in the DFSP advanced level and receive a 3-percent discount.

Private employers must complete and submit their application to the BWC by June 30, 2010, for the initial July 1, 2010 program year. To sign up for this great discount program opportunity contact Safety Controls Technology, Inc., an Ohio BWC Certified Safety provider.
