

Stephen C. Beck
Chief Sustainability Officer
Director, Science and Technology
Director, Commissioning Services Group
LeChase Construction Services LLC

Stephen Beck, a 18-year veteran of LeChase, as Chief Sustainability Officer, and Director – Science and Technology, Steve and his team are responsible for the turnkey delivery of cleanrooms and contamination controlled facilities, internal and outsourced commissioning services and support for all sustainable and/or LEED® certified projects, and for all sustainable construction and sustainable company operations.

Mr. Beck attended the University of the Rochester and Rochester Institute of Technology studying Mechanical and Industrial Engineering, and has continued his studies in Construction Management and Business Administration and is currently pursuing an MBA in Sustainability.

Mr. Beck is a LEED™ Accredited Professional (BD & C), and an Indoor Air Quality Certified Professional, a member of ASHRAE, the Design Build Institute of America and the Lean Construction Institute. He is a senior member of the Institute of Environmental Science and Testing and serves on Working Group Nano 200 and served as a member of ASHRAE's, "Advanced Indoor Air Quality Task Force" which has just completed a new guideline for the USEPA. Mr. Beck currently serves on ASHRAE's "PMP (Building Performance Metrics Protocols) Best Practices" committee.

Mr. Beck is a past member of the Board of Directors of the New York Upstate Chapter of USGBC, is currently serving as a member of the advisory board Chair of the Chapter's He serves as an Education Provider Reviewer and auditor for USGBC/GBCI. He is a national trainer for AGC's "Building to LEED NC" course and has presented several papers on the Contractor's role and perspective in Sustainable Buildings and regularly teaches seminars on sustainable construction and guest lectures at local area colleges and universities. Mr. Beck has developed course work for the Workforce Development Institute of NY and trained building and construction trade instructors (AFL – CIO) across all of Upstate NY, Long Island, Connecticut and Rhode Island. He served as an advisor to Urban Green (NYC) in the development of their "G – Pro" training program and developed "The Contractor's Toolbox for Projects Seeking LEED Certification", workshop for the Canadian Construction Association which has been approved for inclusion in the GreenBuild 365 course catalog. Currently, Mr. Beck is an authorized national instructors for AGC's Lean Construction Project Management Program and regularly presents on IPD/Lean Construction. He will be teaching an upper undergraduate/graduate course on IPD/Lean Construction at RIT as part of RIT's new Construction Management Program.