The Austin Company Continues to Grow

August 15, 2017; Cleveland, Ohio – The Austin Company (www.theaustin.com) has added 7,000 square feet to its Cleveland office to support the company's continued growth. The added space includes offices for 18 people and a training and conference center. This expansion compliments renovation projects Austin completed late last year to add collaboration and gathering spaces to its existing office and upgrade technology throughout the office.

"As one of Cleveland's oldest companies, we are always working to stay on the cutting edge. Some of the improvements we have made in recent years have helped drive our growth and this expansion. Similar to what is happening in the community of Northeast Ohio, we see only brighter days ahead for Austin," said Mike Pierce, President of The Austin Company. He continued, "When we considered this expansion, we wanted to include a training and conference center. Our business is collaborative by nature, so having spaces to support collaboration is important. This space also allows us to easily conduct interactive BIM model reviews and host start-of-the-art training."

The Austin Company has already filled the added workspaces and is investigating options for potential future expansion.
